Academic Research Activities

January 2002-January 2003 Co-Investigator. Collected data with Dr. Zibin Guo at Erlanger Hospital to determine how to increase rates of job satisfaction and organizational commitment amongst nurses.

January 2000-May 2000 Principal Investigator. Collected data with Dr. Leila Pratt and Dr. Vicki Steinberg to assess the impact of Women's Studies courses on the attitudes of undergraduate men and women about feminism.

November 1994- May 1995 Research Assistant to Professor John Robinson. I was responsible for writing and editing reports for governmental agencies. I was also involved in various time use studies, including observing and documenting time use by children.

July 1994-May 1995 Research Associate at Center for Substance Abuse Research. I was responsible for directing the "Substance Abuse and Treatment Needs Among Arrestees (SANTA)" Project. The purpose of this project was the measurement of drug use and treatment needs in the adult arrestee population in Baltimore, Maryland. This study was a model for similar studies in other states.

1992-1993 Research Assistant to William W. Falk on "Changing Structure of Local Labor Markets in Non-Metropolitan Areas", funded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. I was responsible for an extensive review of literature focusing on historically black counties in the American South; also provided assistance with quantitative analysis.

1988-1989 Conference Coordinator with George Ritzer entitled "Sociological Theory: Current Status and Near-Term Prospects". The Conference brought distinguished young theorists (including Jeffrey Alexander, Jonathan Turner, Gary Alan Fine, Patricia Lengermann, Richard Harvey Brown, Robert Antonio, Richard Munch, etc.) to campus for two days. It resulted in the book, George Ritzer (ed.) Frontiers of Social Theory: The New Synthesis. New York: Columbia University Press.
