

Dr. Jeffra Flaitz earned her doctorate in Foreign Language Education from the State University of New York at Buffalo, and had spent over 25 years teaching at the university level before taking a hiatus from academia in 2007 to work as an ESOL Resource Teacher in the Pasco County, Florida public school system. Dr. Flaitz served as Director of the English Language Training Center in Beijing, China in 1983-84, Director of the English Language Institute at the University of South Florida from 1996 to 2004, and Director of the M.A. program in Applied Linguistics (1996-2000) and the Ph.D. program in Second Language Acquisition and Instructional Technology (2005-2007), both at the University of South Florida. In 2000 she was granted a Fulbright Senior Scholar Award to EAFIT University in Medellin, Colombia where she delivered in-service training to English language teachers. Dr. Flaitz has traveled to many countries in Eastern Europe and South America to offer teacher development workshops and seminars, has taught English in France, and lived for one year in the former Soviet Union. She is author of The Ideology of English: French Perceptions of English as an International Language (Mouton, 1986), Understanding Your International Students: An Educational, Cultural, and Linguistic Guide (University of Michigan Press, 2003), Understanding Your Immigrant and Refugee Students: An Educational, Cultural, and Linguistic Guide (University of Michigan Press, 2006), plus numerous scholarly articles in professional journals.