1. Description of proposed changes
The purpose of this proposal is to change the name of the Interior Design major to Interior Architecture.
2. Rationale for requested change
Include any information and/or data which is being used to justify the change(s).
3.
This name change more accurately describes the curriculum content and will alleviate confusion for potential students. It should have a positive impact on retention numbers and promote a more diverse student body. This name change is supported by our accreditation and professional certification examination. This name change requires no changes to the curriculum. The name of the Department (Interior Design) will not change.

Interior Design

Associate Professor Dana Moody, Head

Interior Design is a multi-faceted profession in which creative and technical solutions are applied within a structure to achieve a built interior environment. Design solutions are functional, aesthetically pleasing and protect the health, safety and welfare of the public.

The Interior Design degree program is accredited by the Council for Interior Design Accreditation (CIDA) and the National Association of Schools of Art and Design (NASAD).

The Interior Design program reserves the right to retain student work for upcoming accreditation site visits.

Mission

The Department of Interior Design at The University of Tennessee at Chattanooga is a nationally recognized interior design program committed to professional achievement through teaching, research and service and the development of responsible design professionals who think critically, protect the health, safety and welfare of the public, and create design solutions responsive to diverse needs.

Continuation Standards

A grade of C (70%) or better in an interior design course is required for that course to be considered as successfully completed, and for that course to count as a prerequisite for subsequent courses in the interior design course sequence. A grade of D or F in an interior design course must be repeated in order to continue, prolonging the time it takes to complete the Interior Design program.

Eligibility to Apply to the Interior Design Degree Program

A student entering UTC who intends to pursue the B.S. in Interior Design must first enroll as a Pre-Major in Interior Design (Pre-Interior Design). To be considered for admission into the B.S. program, students must earn a C or better in all interior design courses prior to review and must maintain an overall cumulative GPA of a 2.00. Prerequisites for application into the Interior Design degree program include INTD 1000 and INTD 1100. Applications to the Interior Design degree program are distributed to eligible pre-interior design students during the Spring semester.

Interior Design Degree Program Application and Review

The application is a formal assessment of the student's ability to think critically, as well as to visualize and verbalize through graphics and writing. The review is intended to provide students with an assessment of their potential for success in the Interior Design degree program of study.

Proposal Status: Workflow Started

early enough to allow them to make a program change should that be advisable. In addition to the formal application, the student's overall academic record will be reviewed for quality and seriousness of purpose. A history of excessive absences, significant lack of participation, withdrawals, or incompletes will not be looked upon favorably. Students who do not satisfactorily complete the review will be unable to enroll in 2000, 3000 and 4000 level courses in Interior Design except by special permission of the Professor and Department Head. Students will have only two opportunities to reapply for admission.

Interior Design students who are successfully admitted into the Interior Design degree program are required to obtain a laptop computer with specified program software to be used in the classroom setting.

Transfer Students

Students transferring from other Interior Design programs who intend to pursue the B.S. in Interior Design at UTC must submit a transfer recommendation form, enroll as a pre-Interior Design major, take or have equivalent credit for INTD 1000 and INTD 1100 (C or better) and must successfully complete the application process into the UTC Interior Design degree program, except by special permission of the Department Head.
