

Thank you for visiting The University of Tennessee at Chattanooga Police Department's social media pages. These pages are to provide the public with information concerning public safety, news, events, activities, stories, photographs, videos, and other information and material intended to increase public awareness about activities related to the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga Police Department.

The University of Tennessee at Chattanooga Police Department offers Facebook, Instagram and Twitter accounts as a service to the community. These accounts are not monitored in real-time. If you have an emergency, call 423-425-4357, while on campus. If you are off-campus and have an emergency, call 911. If you wish to report a crime directly, please call the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga Police Department at 423-425-4357.

To encourage police/citizen interaction, we welcome the posting of comments or responses to our social media pages. However, the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga Police Department Facebook page or Instagram account is not meant for comments that do not directly relate to the purpose and topical scope of the page. Only comments consistent with the terms and conditions set forth herein by the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga Police Department and the terms and conditions set forth by Facebook, Inc. or Twitter, Inc. will be allowed. Comments made by users do not necessarily reflect the views of the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga Police Department or its members, and should not be deemed as an endorsement by the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga Police Department or its members, nor should they be considered as being accurate or verified.

The University of Tennessee at Chattanooga Police Department Social Media accounts are available and open to the public for viewing and participation. However, the accounts are purposefully controlled online sites established for a limited purpose. All postings and comments are, in addition to the terms and conditions established by Facebook, Inc. or Twitter, Inc. subject to the following terms and conditions established by the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga Police Department. By submitting or posting a comment on this page, you acknowledge having read, reviewed, and agreed to the terms and conditions set forth herein.

Consistent with the purpose of these pages, the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga Police Department reserves the right to remove comments that are:

Not directly related to the purpose and topical scope of the page;

Obscene, vulgar, sexually explicit or otherwise offensive language/content or links to such material;

Child Pornography;

Incitement to imminent lawless action;

Speech presenting a grave and imminent threat;

Remarks that disparage or discriminate against anyone based upon their sex, race, creed, religious views, national origin, sexual orientation, disability, etc.;

Fighting words;

Material that has the potential to compromise public safety or the safety of law enforcement personnel;

Threats of any kind;

Fraud;

Defamation (libel/slander);

Advocating to commit or speech integral to criminal conduct or other illegal behavior;

Promotions or advertisements of business or commercial transactions;

Promotions in favor of, or in opposition to, a candidate campaigning for election to political office;

Copyrighted materials (if posted without the copyright holder's consent);

Violating any local, state, or federal law;

Robo-spam and comments posted by automatic software programs (known as "bots") will be removed if necessary to ensure access for the general public;

Any form of solicitation.

The University of Tennessee at Chattanooga, is dedicated to forging lasting bonds with its many constituencies, particularly in the area of social networks. As the academy is the appropriate arena for discussion, debate, and the healthy exchange of ideas, comments are not moderated prior to being posted to our Facebook page. We welcome your enthusiasm for our university, its academic programs, its cultural events, its athletic programs, and its regional and global impact.

The University of Tennessee at Chattanooga Police Department also reserves the right to block access to our social media pages to any user violating these guidelines, without prior warning or notice.

The University of Tennessee at Chattanooga Police Department reserves the right to make changes to these guidelines without notice, and when it becomes necessary to do so.

DISCLAIMERS

The Facebook, Instagram and Twitter accounts plus its contents are managed by the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga Police Department's designated personnel. All comments posted to these are subject to monitoring and review by the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga Police Department who reserves the right to remove or prohibit postings with the content described above. There is no expectation of privacy in information submitted to or posted on the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga Police Department social media accounts.

