PREFACE

It's a good thing to be an Honors College student at UTC. You get to take small seminars designed for bright students and taught by some of UTC's finest professors. You have access to special scholarships, research funding, stipends to spend on cultural events, and opportunities for low-cost travel and study abroad. You have access to first-class study and social spaces in the newly-renovated Guerry Center. You have a staff dedicated to your welfare and success, and excellent systems of advisement and registration.

With these privileges come some expectations of responsibility on your part. To help you take maximum advantage of your opportunities, and to understand exactly what is expected of you, the Honors College staff has written this handbook. We urge you to read it thoroughly and to ask questions about any parts you do not understand. You are responsible for knowing it well.

By their very nature, handbooks tend to be authoritative and full of rules, and this one is no exception. Still, we hope you find it helpful, maybe even interesting in parts. Yes, we have to lay down some rules to help us all get along. Our aim, though, is to create within the Honors College an environment that you will find nurturing, supportive, stimulating, and comfortable. Long after you have become an alumnus of the College, we want you to recall your years with us as some of the best of your life.

Like everything we ask you to read, we want you to examine this handbook critically. If you see any way to improve its content, please let us know.

THE HONORS COLLEGE MISSION AND VISION

Mission Statement

Our mission is to provide a diverse, inclusive communities of inquiry, opportunity, and support, dedicated to the development of scholarly excellence and social consciousness

Vision Statement

The Honors College at UTC will be a center of innovation, providing: enriching experiences for the campus overall, a conduit for research, and an intellectual community that develops creative, transformative student, staff, and faculty leaders through a community-embedded and globally informed curriculum.

Honors College Student Outcomes

Through a combination of curriculum and co-curricular pursuits, graduates of UTC's Honors College will have demonstrated and developed:

- Critical and Creative Thinking
- Creative and Research Activities
- Communication
- Collaboration
- Community Understanding
- Cultivated Professionalism

HONORS COLLEGE BENEFITS

Academic Advisement and Priority Registration

Because they often have unusual scheduling requirements, all students admitted to the Honors College receive priority registration for classes. Freshmen (Brock Scholars and High Achieving Mocs) should plan to attend the first UTC freshman summer orientation session to have a better chance of being admitted to their preferred classes for the Fall term. All other honors students (Brock Scholars and Innovation Scholars) are advised one week before the regular UTC advisement/registration dates.

The Honors College advisors will spend at least thirty minutes with each freshman to discuss academic options and expectations. Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors are encouraged to seek advice from their major departments first, and then to consult with an Honors College advisor about honors course work before registering online.

The Cultural Stipend

Each Honors College student in good standing receives $50.00 per year for approved cultural events. This stipend is intended to provide an enrichment to your education; we hope you will use it to explore cultural opportunities you might not experience otherwise. You may purchase one ticket per event on your stipend account.

There are certain on- and off-campus events that are pre-approved, including UTC Theatre Department and Music Department performances, the Chattanooga Celebration of Southern Literature, Chattanooga Symphony and Opera performances, special exhibits at The Hunter Museum of American Art, performances at the Barkling Legs Theatre, and films shown as part of the Chattanooga Film Festival.

For on-campus events, take your Mocs ID to the Fine Arts Center box office and tell the cashier your ticket can be charged to the Honors College. The ticket will then be charged to our account. You will need to purchase your own ticket for any off-campus events and submit the ticket stub to the Honors College Office. You will receive a refund after the paperwork is processed in the Bursar's Office.

Note: All ticket stubs must show the title, date and cost of the event. Ticket stubs for the Independent Film Series must specifically show the title of the film. Other performances or events may be eligible for the cultural stipend, but you must obtain prior approval from the Associate Dean for anything not listed above.

Graduation Designations

Honors College students may receive several distinctions and designations upon graduation from UTC, depending on their pathways through the College.

Honors College Diploma

The broadest designation is the Honors College Diploma, which may be earned by Brock Scholars and Innovations in Honors students. This distinction is also noted on the student's final transcript. To earn the diploma students must complete:

- A minimum of 24 hours of approved honors course work (some may be transfer credit, but a student should have completed at least 12 hours in honors at UTC)
- A Departmental Honors Thesis or an Honors College Thesis (4 hours each; these hours are included in the required minimum 24 hours)
- A leadership activity clearly evidenced in the student's learning portfolio
- A service activity clearly evidenced in the student's learning portfolio

Students who complete the Brock Scholars Program have the minimum number of honors hours automatically and will earn the Honors College diploma as long as they also successfully complete a thesis and the other requirements for the diploma listed above. Students in the Innovations in Honors Program may earn the diploma by completing the requirements for that program and at least 9 more honors credit hours; these hours may include transfer hours from another approved honors program or additional honors hours acquired at UTC, including Brock seminars, honors internship credit (via UHON 3950r), and approved HAM courses.

William E. Brock, Jr. Scholar

Students who complete the requirements for the Brock Scholars Program will be designated as William E. Brock, Jr. Scholars at graduation and on the transcript.

Innovation Scholar

Students who complete the requirements for the Innovations in Honors Program will be designated as Innovation Scholars at graduation and on the transcript.

Departmental Honors

Students who successfully complete a Departmental Honors Thesis and have the requisite GPAs (overall and in the major) may receive one of two designations at graduation:

- Departmental Honors (3.2 overall GPA and a 3.5 GPA in the major)
- Highest Departmental Honors (3.5 overall GPA and a 3.75 GPA in the major)

The appropriate departmental honors designation will appear on the student's UTC diploma and on the transcript.

Honors Housing

Housing is reserved in Boling Apartments for freshman students in the Honors College, and all freshmen who live on campus are required to live in our honors residential learning community (appeals will be considered). After the freshman year, honors students may choose to live where they please, on campus or off. Housing for honors upperclassmen is reserved in the UC Foundation apartments.

Odyssey Grants

Odyssey Grants are awarded to Honors College students pursuing an unusually enriching academic experience that takes them away from UTC: a period of study abroad or at a distant domestic university, for example, or an academic internship outside of the Chattanooga area. The grants help defray some of the extra cost of such pursuits, encouraging you to challenge yourself and make your mark in the broader world. Applicants must be Honors College students in good standing at the time of their application and during the period for which the grant is awarded; they must also be enrolled in a credit-bearing program of study approved by UTC and the Honors College Associate Dean for the period of the grant award. Grant award amounts will be communicated when application information is circulated. Applications for Odyssey Grants are typically solicited three times a year.

Student Research Fellowships

The Student Research Fellowship Program is designed to match energetic, dedicated Honors College students with UTC faculty members who want assistance with their research projects. This is an excellent opportunity for undergraduate research and faculty mentoring. It's also a decent-paying on-campus job.

SRFs may work up to 100 hours during the semester of appointment and are paid $12 per hour. Faculty members apply by submitting a request describing their projects and the duties to be undertaken by an SRF, and estimating the number of hours per week they require. Interested Honors College students review these faculty requests, and then submit applications describing their top choices of projects, their qualifications, and how working on the project might help them toward meeting their academic and life goals. The Honors College staff then matches students with faculty projects based on the project's demands, student dedication and benefit, other time commitments, etc. Appointments are for one semester only.

Academic Conference Participation

Honors College students have many opportunities to present their research and creative work at several interdisciplinary honors conferences each year: the Tennessee Collegiate Honors Council Conference, the Southern Regional Honors Council Conference, and the National Collegiate Honors Council Conference. These conferences require students to submit presentation proposals; if you have a proposal accepted for presentation, the Honors College will pay your conference registration fee as well as lodging and travel expenses to and from the conference, as long as you travel with our group. If you have a proposal accepted by the conference you must attend and make the presentation unless serious medical or other emergencies make it impossible to do so; we will have invested considerable funds in your participation which we will not be able to recoup. Should you decide not to present, you will no longer be eligible for future travel with the Honors College.

COLLEGE-WIDE REQUIREMENTS

Student Code of Conduct

All Honors College students will abide by the Student Code of Conduct as set forth in the UTC Student Handbook, published by the Division of Student Development and available online at <http://catalog.utc.edu/content.php?catoid=35&navoid=1332> Honors College students will also abide by the rules and policies set forth in this Honors College Handbook, available via the Honors College UTC Online Organization and on the Honors College website at <http://www.utc.edu/honors-college/hc-handbook-2020.pdf>.

Be sure to read all of these documents very carefully. The University particularly expects honors students to adhere strictly to its general systems and codes, and the Honors College administration looks to its students to abide by its rules. More information about those rules will be found below.

Leadership Requirement

Students in the Honors College must fulfill a leadership requirement which can be met in a range of ways that may include: participation in UTC's Student Government Association; a leadership position in any other student organization; an RA position; leadership in a research environment; leadership in a local organization or community agency; leadership within the Honors College itself, particularly as part of the Honors College Council or as a designated team leader of an Innovation Lab. Completion of the leadership requirement will be determined by the quality of the leadership reflection essay included in the student's learning portfolio (see below).

Learning Portfolio

Each student in the Honors College is required to maintain an electronic learning portfolio that will be the repository of their reflection essays on academic course work and out-of-classroom, experiential, research, and leadership experiences. Portfolios will also include relevant and representative course assignments, including a copy of the honors capstone thesis. Honors students will receive specific instruction on how to create, maintain, and develop their learning portfolios in UHON 1000 and UHON 2000.

Honors Theses

All students in the Brock Scholars Program and Innovations in Honors Program must complete an honors thesis. There are two options for meeting this requirement; both options are two-semester, four-hour theses typically undertaken in the student's final year. Both require an approved proposal, substantial, sustained engagement in research or creative activity under the direction of a UTC faculty member, and an oral examination by committee at the time of completion.

Departmental Honors Thesis

The Departmental Honors thesis is undertaken in the student's major department. Students earn four hours of upper-level major elective credit (for major course 4995), and earn one of two special designations at graduation, depending on their overall and major GPAs:

- Departmental Honors (3.2 overall GPA and a 3.5 GPA in the major)
- Highest Departmental Honors (3.5 overall GPA and a 3.75 GPA in the major)

A full account of procedures and policies can be found in the current Departmental Honors Manual, obtainable online at <https://www.utc.edu/honors-college/dhon.php>.

Honors College Thesis

This option allows students to undertake theses in subjects not strictly related to their majors. Students earn four hours of upper-level elective honors credit (for UHON 4995). Students cannot earn the departmental honors designation via the Honors College thesis, since the thesis is not undertaken in the departmental major.

College and Campus Citizenship

Honors College students are expected to be leaders on campus – active in student organizations like the Echo newspaper staff, the Sequoia Review, the Student Government Association, Black Student Alliance, or any of UTC's 100+ special interest and departmental organizations. You are also expected to be a good citizen, willing to serve your university and community by volunteering your time, labor, and expertise. The College makes such opportunities easily available; just watch for announcements.

Also, as a member of the Honors College you're expected to contribute to our honors community in a range of ways, many of which are provided by the Honors College Council. In particular, you are expected to be ready, willing, and available to participate in our recruitment and orientation efforts, serving as hosts and as ambassadors during the freshman interview weekends and speaking to interested potential Innovation Scholars during our fall information sessions for that program. Negligence in this regard may affect your applications for Odyssey Grants, Travel Seminar participation, and other opportunities.

Learning Environment

Above all else, the Honors College is a community of inquiry. Its students, faculty, staff, alumni, and community partners are asked to commit to seeking not only knowledge, but also awareness and understanding of people whose experiences, cultures, spiritual beliefs, values, and skills are different from their own. To that end, we must all work to create and sustain a learning environment that embraces a broad diversity of ideas and perspectives. That work insists on the following principles, both in and outside of the classroom:

- Be courteous. When someone else is speaking, don't interrupt or engage in side conversations. Remember that your facial expressions and body language can reveal whether or not you are paying attention to what is being said.
- Listen. This is different from merely letting someone talk. You can't effectively agree or disagree with another person's ideas if you haven't actively listened to those ideas in an effort to understand them. Asking follow up questions, critiquing, expanding on or clarifying a point all demonstrate that you have paid attention to the speaker.
- Challenge the idea, not the person. Other people have the right to hold opinions and beliefs with which you may disagree. Should you want to challenge something that's been said, be sure to challenge the idea and not the person sharing it.
- Make space for others' ideas. Allow everyone the chance to talk. If you have a lot to say, try to hold back a bit; if you are hesitant to speak, look for opportunities to contribute to the discussion and empower yourself to speak up.
- Speak your discomfort. If you are offended by something or think someone else might be, say something – calmly and respectfully, but do speak up. No one else can express your personal discomfort as well as you can.
- Use dignifying language. A serious community of inquiry cannot tolerate the use of language that intentionally insults others, including racial epithets and comments intended to be sexist, homophobic, transphobic, ageist, ableist, etc. Language is a powerful tool; use it to dignify others, not demean them.

THE BROCK SCHOLARS PROGRAM

The Brock Scholars Program is a four-year interdisciplinary program where academically gifted and motivated students can pursue an education that nurtures their intellects, sense of social responsibility, and drive to lead.

Admission

Each year the Brock Scholars Program seeks to admit 50 first-time freshman students. Students at the sophomore level and above who wish to participate in honors should consider the Innovations in Honors Program (IIH) or Departmental Honors (DHON).

Admission to the Brock Scholars Program requires a special application process in addition to the University's Undergraduate Admissions Application. Interested students should apply to the Brock Scholars Program by January 15 of the year in which they would matriculate as first-time freshmen the following August. A current application is available via the Brock Scholars website: <https://www.utc.edu/honors-college/brock-scholars/>.

After evaluating all written applications, the most qualified applicants are invited to attend one of three on-campus conferences, which include seminars, information sessions, and activities with Honors College faculty, staff, and students. These visits provide opportunities for applicants to explore the campus, participate in seminars, learn about academic departments, and socialize with current students. They also give the Honors College faculty and staff further opportunities to evaluate candidates.

After all candidate conferences are completed, the Brock Scholars selection committee will notify all applicants by letter of their admission status.

Curriculum

The Brock Scholars curriculum is an academic minor at UTC, and consists of 25-31 credit hours in specially designed and enhanced seminar courses, most of which fulfill general education requirements, as well as experiential learning courses that give students opportunities to develop and practice essential skills while challenging themselves beyond the classroom. The flexible nature of our curriculum allows students from any academic major to participate in the program.

Brock Scholars must declare Brock Scholars as a minor field of study, and complete all of the following (19 credit hours total):

- UHON 1000 – Freshman Honors Studies (1 credit hour)
- UHON 1010 – Humanities I (6 credit hours)*
- UHON 1020 – Humanities II (6 credit hours)**
- UHON 2000 – Sophomore Honors Studies (1 credit hour)
- UHON 3000 – Junior Honors Studies (1 credit hour)
- Departmental Honors or Honors College Thesis: 4 credit hours in any 4995 course

Additionally, Brock Scholars select a total of four courses from the following two lists; no more than two courses may be selected from the second list (6-12 credit hours total).

1. Must select at least two of the following for a minimum of 6 hours:

- Innovation Labs (must be taken together in sequence):
  - UHON 2850r – Innovation Lab I (3 credit hours)
  - UHON 2860r – Innovation Lab II (3 credit hours)
- General Education Seminars:

- UHON 3580r – Topics in Statistics (3 credit hours)
- UHON 3590r – Topics in Non-Western Cultures (3 credit hours)

2. May select up to two of the following Experiential Learning courses (no minimum # of credit hours):

- UHON 3950r – Honors Experiential Learning: Internship (0-3 credit hours)
- UHON 3960r – Honors Experiential Learning: Leadership (0-3 credit hours)
- UHON 3970r – Honors Experiential Learning: Service Learning (0-3 credit hours)
- UHON 3980r – Honors Experiential Learning: Study Abroad/Study Away (0-3 credit hours)
- UHON 3990r – Honors Experiential Learning: Undergraduate Research/Creative Activity (0-3 hours)

*UHON 1010 is 6 hours of course credit, with 3 hours counting as General Education: Rhetoric and Writing; and 3 hours counting as General Education: Literature.

**UHON 1020 is 6 hours of course credit, with 6 hours counting as General Education: Rhetoric and Writing; and 3 hours counting as General Education: Thought, Values, Beliefs.

The remaining 28-29 hours of General Education requirements may be fulfilled through the General Education Honors Seminars, or through non-honors General Education courses.

Honors General Education Seminars are proposed annually by UTC faculty members and selected by the Honors College Advisory Committee for inclusion in the following year's class schedule. The seminars selected will then be developed carefully and collaboratively to ensure fulfillment of General Education learning outcomes.

Honors Thesis

Brock Scholars also complete an honors thesis (4 hours) — either a Departmental Honors Thesis in the major (departmental course 4995) or an interdisciplinary thesis on the College level (UHON 4995). See the "Honors Theses" section above for more information.

Academic Standing

To remain in good standing in the Brock Scholars Program, students must maintain at least a 3.2 cumulative grade point average while earning a minimum of 30 credit hours during each academic year. In addition, Brock Scholars must make good progress in the Program curriculum. Generally, this means completing at least two Brock seminars per academic year.

Each semester, the Associate Dean reviews the academic standing of every Brock Scholar. If you have fallen below the required 3.2 GPA, you will receive an email stating that you will be put on "probation" for one semester. Students on probation retain their Brock scholarship funding and most other privileges, though they may not apply for additional funded opportunities like Odyssey Grants or Student Research Fellowships (see above). If they cannot raise their GPA to 3.2 after that semester of probation, they are put on "suspension." This is more serious; students on suspension forfeit any Brock scholarships, funding, and opportunities. Students on suspension may not serve on the Honors College Council and may enroll in honors seminars only with permission of the Associate Dean. If after your semester of suspension you still don't have a 3.2, you will be permanently dismissed from the Program. Of course, if you do manage to raise your GPA to 3.2 by the end of your semester of suspension, you will return to good standing and your Brock Scholar benefits will be reinstated immediately.

Scholarships

Brock Scholars enjoy a four-year renewable scholarship. About 50 scholarships are awarded each year by the Program to students invited to join the freshman class. The Associate Dean will review academic performance at the end of each term to determine continued eligibility and will inform students if their Brock Scholarships are in danger.

The Brock Scholarship will fund a maximum of eight semesters of coursework. However, it is not uncommon for a student to take more than four years (8 semesters) to complete a degree. Should you decide in this case to delay your Honors Thesis until your fifth year (semesters 9 and 10), you will not receive any Brock scholarship during your fourth year (semesters 7 and 8). You will receive the final year of scholarship benefits during semesters 9 and 10, since you will be making satisfactory progress in the Program during your fifth year instead. Your final two semesters of benefits will not be released until you have a thesis proposal approved and register for the appropriate 4995 class.

The Honors College is fortunate to have received support for additional smaller endowed scholarships; students in good standing in the Honors College will be invited to apply for these one-time awards as endowment funds allow.

Non-Brock scholarships, such as the Chancellor's, Provost's, Mocs, and Tennessee HOPE (Lottery), are awarded by the UTC Scholarships Office and carry specific continuation requirements that differ somewhat from those of the Brock scholarships. Your academic performance for Chancellor's and Provost's scholarships is reviewed only once each year, at the end of the Spring semester. Your performance for the Tennessee HOPE Scholarship is reviewed at specific credit hour check points. You will get no warning of imminent danger for non-Brock scholarships. It's up to you to understand and meet the requirements for renewal each year.

THE INNOVATIONS IN HONORS PROGRAM

The Innovations in Honors (IIH) Program is an academic minor at UTC, offering students the opportunity to undertake a civically engaged, problem-solving curriculum that will culminate in a solution proposal and action plan, answering authentic problems that are relevant to our city, state, and region. The program is built around a two-course Innovation Lab sequence that utilizes problem-based learning and design thinking to teach creativity, collaboration, and community-based research. Students also do additional honors course work and complete an honors thesis for a total program of 15-16 credit hours.

Admission

Admission to the IIH Program is determined by application in the Spring semester of the freshman or sophomore year. There is no minimum GPA required at the time of application, though students must have a 3.2 cumulative GPA and at least 24 hours of graded college coursework to be admitted to the program. Students begin their IIH coursework in the Fall of their sophomore or junior year.

Curriculum

Innovations in Honors students must declare IIH as a minor field of study. The required curriculum for IIH students is 18-24 hours of honors course work, constituted as follows:

Innovation Scholars must complete all of the following (12 credit hours total):

- UHON 2000r – Sophomore Honors Studies (1 credit hour)
- UHON 2850r – Innovation Lab I (3 credit hours)
- UHON 2860r – Innovation Lab II (3 credit hours)
- UHON 3000r – Junior Honors Studies (1 credit hour)
- Departmental Honors or Honors College Thesis: 4 hours in any 4995 course

Innovation Scholars also select any of the following courses for a minimum of 6 credit hours or a maximum of 12 credit hours. (Honors credit from other approved programs or colleges may be substituted for these requirements if they are included in a previous articulation agreement or have received permission from the dean.)

General Education Seminars:

- UHON 3510r – Topics in Historical Understanding (3 credit hours)
- UHON 3520r – Topics in Literature (3 credit hours)
- UHON 3530r – Topics in Thought, Values, and Beliefs (3 credit hours)
- UHON 3540r – Topics in Visual and Performing Arts (3 credit hours)
- UHON 3550r – Topics in Behavioral and Social Sciences (3 credit hours)
- UHON 3560r – Topics in Natural Science: Non-Laboratory (3 credit hours)
- UHON 3565r – Topics in Natural Science: Laboratory (4 credit hours)
- UHON 3570r – Topics in Mathematics (3 credit hours)
- UHON 3580r – Topics in Statistics (3 credit hours)
- UHON 3590r – Topics in Non-Western Cultures (3 credit hours)

Experiential Learning Courses:

- UHON 3950r – Honors Experiential Learning: Internship (0-3 credit hours)
- UHON 3960r – Honors Experiential Learning: Leadership (0-3 credit hours)
- UHON 3970r – Honors Experiential Learning: Service Learning (0-3 credit hours)
- UHON 3980r – Honors Experiential Learning: Study Abroad/Study Away (0-3 credit hours)

At the heart of the IIH curriculum is UHON 2850 and 2860 – the Innovation Labs. This year-long, two-course sequence is designed as a community-embedded, problem-based learning experience. Working with a UTC faculty member and campus and community partners, students learn critical thinking, design thinking, problem-solving, creativity, and more as they identify, research, define, and propose solutions for significant real-world problems. These are not at all typical college courses; much of the learning takes place outside the classroom and away from campus as students go "into the field" to understand some of the truly pressing questions in our community and beyond. Students collaborate across disciplinary boundaries, and have opportunities to network with community change-agents.

In order to complete the Innovations in Honors Program, students must successfully complete both UHON 2850 and UHON 2860, Innovation Lab I and II. Students receive an IP (In Progress) at the end of UHON 2850, which the instructor will replace with an appropriate standard letter grade at the end of UHON 2860. In order to receive the total 6 hours of academic credit for UHON 2850 and UHON 2860, students must complete both semesters of I-Labs. Should a student who has made satisfactory progress in UHON 2850 decide not to register for UHON 2860, a letter grade will be assigned by the faculty member rather than the customary IP, and the student will be removed from the Innovations in Honors Program. It should be understood that, under these circumstances, the highest grade a student can earn in UHON 2850 is a B.

IIH students will also complete an honors thesis (4 hours) — either a Departmental Honors Thesis in the major (departmental course 4995) or an Honors College Thesis in an area outside of the student's major or that takes an interdisciplinary approach (UHON 4995). See the "Honors Theses" section above for more information.

Academic Standing

To remain in good standing in the IIH Program, students must maintain at least a 3.2 cumulative grade point average and make satisfactory progress in the program (this means taking required courses and proposing the thesis in a timely manner).

There are three GPA check points. IIH students who do not have the minimum 3.2 cumulative GPA at any one of these check points may not proceed in the program. The Associate Dean of the College will verify GPA continuation eligibility:

- At the time of enrollment in Innovations in Honors
- At the end of the semester in which the thesis is proposed
- At the point of graduation

In order to be eligible for Departmental Honors, students must also have a minimum 3.5 GPA in their major course work.

DEPARTMENTAL HONORS PROGRAM

The Departmental Honors Program (DHON) is administered by the Honors College but resides most meaningfully in the university's individual academic departments. The program allows exceptional students to receive special recognition for their academic achievements. Departmental honors is bestowed upon students who have maintained high academic standards in their course work, completed an acceptable two-semester, four-hour thesis, and passed an oral examination. Graduation with departmental honors is recorded on the academic record and on the diploma. The departmental thesis allows each honors candidate to deepen knowledge and increase skills in a particular discipline. Typical thesis projects include original research or literary analysis, scientific experimentation, or acts of artistic expression with appropriate documentation. Departmental Honors requires an institutional cumulative grade point average of 3.2 and a grade point average of 3.5 in the major. Any student with an institutional cumulative grade point average of 3.5 and a grade point average of 3.75 in the major may become a candidate for highest departmental honors

Students interested in completing a Departmental Honors Thesis should consult with both the Honors College and their home departments no later than the first semester of the junior year. Application for departmental honors is usually made during the third semester before graduation. Forms and a full accounting of procedures and policies can be found in the current Departmental Honors Manual, obtainable online at <http://www.utc.edu/honors-college/dhon.php>.

THE HONORS COLLEGE COUNCIL

The Honors College Council organizes co-curricular, social, and community service activities in the College. It also coordinates the activities of the various Council committees.

In the semester of their entry into the Honors College, students will make a one-time dues payment in support of Council activities, as follows:

- Brock Scholars:           $40
- Innovation Scholars:   $20
- High-Achieving Mocs   $10

At the end of every academic year, Honors College students will elect 14 representatives to the Council. Whether you are a representative or not, all honors students are expected to participate in events planned by the Council.

Periodically the Council will also call upon all Honors College students to join various ad hoc committees. Look for those opportunities when they are announced by email or posted on the College's UTC Online community. Be ready to offer your help.

COMPLAINT POLICY AND PROCESS

DANGERS AND PITFALLS

Denying You Need Help

You have a great support system as an Honors College student: nine staff members whose job it is to help you succeed both at UTC and beyond. We are here to help you solve problems, whether they are social, psychological, academic, or financial. But we can only help if you tell us you need help. This is the hard part for honors students. You are all very bright. You are used to making 'A's, getting along with your teachers, being held up as model students. But the reality is you may not be able to continue this smooth trend in college, at least over four years. Eventually you may get a poor grade on a paper, fail an exam, forget a homework assignment and stress out. The worst thing you can do is deny your need for help. The best thing you can do is contact an Honors College staff member. Here are just a few things we can do for you:

- Talk with you about your problem, offering sage wisdom now and then.
- Contact your professor and see how your performance could be improved.
- Arrange for tutoring.
- Work with Financial Aid to investigate financial problems.
- Contact a professional counselor or psychologist and make an appointment for you.
- Contact the Offices of Records, Admissions, etc. to solve bureaucratic issues.
- Help alter your schedule of classes.

Losing Touch with the College and Poor Communication

Beware of losing touch with a community designed to help you succeed. Come by the Guerry Center at least a couple of times a week to do some homework. Sit a while and maybe chat with the staff and other students.

Increasingly, staying on top of electronic communications is critical to your welfare and success. Social media are fun and useful in a lot of ways, and we do use them, but they have their limits. Get used to using your UTC email account – that's where you'll receive important communications from the University, your professors, and Honors College administrators. Check your UTC email account at least once a day, and respond quickly when it's called for. Also, all Honors College students are automatically enrolled in a "UTC Learn" Organization (<http://www.utc.edu/learn>). This organization is an important source of information about the Honors College programs, courses, important documents, and opportunities. You are encouraged to send email via the community, but be sure to keep the content relevant to the College or your program, and of interest to honors students.

Tutoring

Sometimes even honors students need academic help, so if you find yourself struggling with a class, talk to your Honors College advisor. UTC has some excellent tutoring resources, and your advisor can help you tap into them. The Center for Academic Support and Advisement offers free tutoring sessions during Fall and Spring semesters for students enrolled in the following classes:

- Accounting 2010, 2020
- Biology 1110, 1120, 1130, 2060, 2080
- Chemistry 1110, 1120, 3010, 3020
- Computer Science 1100, 1110
- Economics 1010, 1020
- Engineering 1030, 1040
- French 1010, 2120
- History 1110, 2010, 2030
- Math 1000-2000 levels
- Management 2130
- Political Science and Public Service 2030
- Physics 1030, 1040, 2300, 2310
- Psychology 2010
- Sociology 1510
- Spanish 1010, 1020, 2120, 2130

The Center also has up-to-date information on many other tutoring resources for students in Business, Foreign languages, Political Science and much more. You can also apply to work as a paid tutor in the Center, Math Plaza, and elsewhere. Visit their website at <https://www.utc.edu/center-academic-support-advisement/>

Need help on a writing project? You can get free assistance at UTC's Writing and Communications Center (Library 327). Many honors students work as writing consultants there, so you'll be sure to get expert guidance. You can also apply to work as a consultant yourself!
